I made sure that it's getting started at the right time, but it still runs in the background when i close the application. Is there a way to stop it? The Process ID is still the same even after the application did launch. Thanks in advance! p.s. I am using Windows Phone 7 A: I know this is a old topic but just in case someone else might be having this problem, I just checked the suggested solution here and it works fine for me. I guess it is the recommended way if you want it to be started just once - the end result will be the same as you are asking for. However, if you want it to be started every time you launch the app, I would suggest to start the service and the application from Application_Launched instead. Thanks!
